강의 개요

This course includes topics on assessment and treatment of psychological and neurocognitive impairments due to illness, physical injury, and developmental disorders. Students will become familiar with models of rehabilitation and therapeutic strategies for working with people with disabilities. Competencies will be developed through lectures, assigned readings, role play and class discussion at-home assignments.

강의 목표

On the class of Rehabilitation Psychology you will:

1. learn about the impact of physical illness and disability on psychological functioning
2. understand issues related to assessment, rehabilitation and recovery of people with physical illness and disability
3. develop in-depth knowledge about rehabilitation for people with neurological conditions
4. evaluate evidence about the effectiveness of rehabilitation
5. develop the ability to apply psychological knowledge within a rehabilitation context
6. receive training in research and clinical skills relevant to working as a physical therapist in rehabilitation psychology

강의 진행방법

1. The student is required to come to every class with a prepared question they have on the lecture topic as well as having completed any assigned reading. After the lecture we will review the questions to be sure they have been answered to the students' satisfaction.
2. Each lecture will accompany a case study question that the class will discuss and contribute answers to clinical scenarios based on their new knowledge of rehabilitation psychology.
